

Parenthood as a profession

The Association for the well-being of society is a newly established organization, which implements the project “Parenthood as a profession”. In the framework of this project a parent school will be created in Mtskheta municipality, where parents will be able to attend a teaching programme on children rights, parenting and positive upbringing, parents’ role for the child development, etc. By the end of the project the project beneficiaries will develop the video “The 10 Commandments for Parents” which will be spread by using social media.
